ILLINOIS INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY
C-K LAW GROUP
INTEROFFICE MEMORANDUM

TO: 2020 LADR Certificate Program Entrants
FROM: Richard Gonzalez
DATE: March 3, 2020
SUBJECT: LADR Curriculum Requirements

The LADR curriculum is designed to give students a comprehensive and balanced professional education to prepare them adequately for the practice of law, with a concentration in litigation and alternative methods of resolving conflict. It offers an innovative curriculum that stresses the connection between legal doctrine, skills and values, and the art of lawyering; it is one designed to educate the students to become reflective practitioners with a lawyering identity developed during law school that incorporates high standards of competence, ethics, and social responsibility.

All students admitted into the LADR Program who receive a J.D. Degree will also receive a LADR Certificate, if they successfully complete the following five (5) lawyering process and two (2) doctrinal course requirements.

As set forth in the above list of LADR Curriculum requirements (see courses A3 and A4 above), LADR students may fulfill their two litigation clinic requirements by taking either one or two C-K Law Group in-house litigation clinics or one C-K Law Group in-house litigation clinic and Judicial Externship. If students take only one C-K Law Group in-house litigation clinic, they may enroll in any one of the following clinics: Plaintiff's Employment Law Litigation, Employment/Civil Litigation, Criminal Defense Litigation, Federal Health Litigation, Family Law Clinic, or the Tax Clinic. If students take a second C-K Law Group in-house litigation clinic, they may enroll in any of the above-mentioned in-house litigation clinics including the same in-house litigation clinic they enrolled in to satisfy their first in-house litigation clinic requirement.

LADR students are encouraged to enroll in the in-house litigation clinic of their choice for three (3) or (4) credits. The Judicial Externship is a four (4) credit course (3 credits of externship and a one credit required classroom component). Since LADR students complete two in-house clinic courses or one in-house clinic course and Judicial Externship, the usual number of credits they will earn to fulfill their two in-house litigation clinic requirements will be six (6) or seven (7).

For students enrolled in Pretrial Litigation in the fall 2020 semester, the advanced research component of LW 4 will be covered in Legal Writing 4 Equivalency Class, a non-credit class, which the student must complete in the same semester the student enrolls in the Pretrial Litigation class. Successful completion of Pretrial Litigation and the Legal Writing 4 Equivalency Class will exempt students from LW 4. All students enrolled in Pretrial Litigation must take LW 3 no later than the following spring semester, which for day division students is usually their fourth semester of Law School.

LADR students must also enroll in Mediation and ADR Practice Clinic. It is recommended that this occur during third year. Mandatory mediation training takes place over two weekends early in the fall and spring semesters. If students are unable to participate in training on a Saturday or Sunday, they may enroll in the Mediation/ADR Clinic in the summer semester since the training sessions are held on weekdays during the summer semester. Students are trained at the Center for Conflict Resolution. The Center charges a fee for such training. This year the fee per student is $800 and is added to the student's tuition when they register for the Mediation Clinic.

LADR students should note that the Evidence Course is a prerequisite for Trial Advocacy I.

LADR students are permitted to take only one of the negotiation, mediation, or ADR courses which are not designated as LADR courses.

Evening division students generally begin the LADR curriculum in their fifth semester of law school. However, evening students who are accepted into LADR in their second semester may take Trial Advocacy I in their fourth semester.

See the attached two page chart setting forth a model J.D. and LADR Curriculum for students admitted to the LADR Program.
